

Scott Blackman

Principal at SRK Innovation, LLC

Hard working professional with experience in construction, design, product engineering, service, facilities, and management. Having a diverse background and extensive knowledge in power systems, mechanical systems, security and monitoring systems, fire protection, and the experience in the construction process has afforded me the opportunity to help my clients get the critical infrastructure they envisioned when they undertook the project.

As our society continues to rely on our network of communications and processes that cannot afford the downtime of the unexpected hiccup, commissioning has went from a nice check to a required function to get the peace of mind to ensure when you submit the final payments, your system is functional and will meet your intended use.
